Administrative History

The office of the president was created in 1870 with the founding of St. Ignatius College. Arnold Dame, S.J., served as the first president from 1870 to 1872. Twenty-three Jesuits have served as president of Loyola during its history, the first twelve presidents serving under the title of president of St. Ignatius College before the college was re-chartered as Loyola University in 1909. Alexander J. Burrowes, S.J., was the last president of St. Ignatius College and the first president of Loyola University.

James F. Maguire, S.J., was inaugurated as the 20th president of Loyola University in 1955 and remained in that role until 1970. His tenure included the transition of Loyola to a fully co-educational university, the men's basketball 1963 NCAA Championship, the creation of the Rome Center, and the celebration of the university's centennial in 1970.

Scope and Content

The records of Father James F. Maguire, S.J., span the years 1936 to 1979 and include records from several of his predecessors, especially James T. Hussey, S.J. (president from 1945 to 1955), and Samuel K. Wilson, S.J. (president from 1933 to 1942). Formats include correspondence, reports, minutes and agendas, speeches and addresses, photographs, blueprints, and newsletters. Arrangement is alphabetical.
