

Ato Quayson

VICTIMS OF ENCHANTMENT: SPACE AND THE EDUCATION OF DESIRE IN POSTCOLONIAL TRAGEDY

A lecture by

Ato Quayson

University Professor and Director of the Centre for Diaspora and Transnational Studies at the University of Toronto

Monday, March 20, 2017
Piper Hall
4:00 – 5:30 p.m.

Reception to Follow

For more information, contact: Ian Cornelius at icornelius@luc.edu / 773-508-2784

Ato Quayson is University Professor and Director of the Centre for Diaspora and Transnational Studies at the University of Toronto. He is a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, general editor of the Cambridge Journal of Postcolonial Literary Inquiry, and author or editor of more than ten books on a wide range of topics in postcolonial and diasporic literature and literary theory. These include Aesthetic Nervousness: Disability and the Crisis of Representation (2007), Oxford Street, Accra (2014), and the two-volume Cambridge History of Postcolonial Literature (2012). He is presently at work on a new monograph titled Postcolonial Literary Tragedy.

