Biographical History

Karen Hanmer is a Chicago-based book binder. Her artistic focus is book structure and installation art. Hanmer graduated with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Economics from Northwestern University and went on to study bookbinding with numerous experts related to artists' books, bookbinding, letterpress, and digital print.

Hanmer's work combines the art of bookbinding with computer graphics. She uses fragmented, layered text and images to create art that explores themes within cultural, history, the history of science, and memory. Her work is intricate and detailed and evokes the experience of looking through a private album or diary. Hanmer's work is exhibited in a variety of collections including the Library of Congress, UCLA, and Graceland. Her work has also been featured in solo exhibits at Florida Atlantic University, the University of the West of England Bristol, and the Brooklyn Museum. Hanmer also won the Jury Prize for Binding in the 2009 Helen Warren DeGolyer American Bookbinding Competition.
